GRAY TO BUILD TWO GARAGES

MODERN BUILDINGS TO REPLACE COAL AND FEED YARD.

ONE ALREADY LEASED

St. Joseph Motor Company, Handling Chevrolet Line, To Locate Here. —Total Cost $30,000.

Two modern garages, of fireproof brick and steel construction, are to replace a building which has been a Maryville "landmark" for twenty-three years, it was announced this morning by John H. Gray, owner of the Gray coal and feed yard. The work of razing the old building began this afternoon.

The two garages will make three large construction projects within a block, with work proceeding simultaneously. Almost adjoining the Gray site is the new theater being erected for J. F. Cook, and across the street from the new theater the Masonic Building Association is remodeling the old Empire Theater building into a Masonic Temple.

Henry L. Foster, contractor, who erected the Gray feed barn twenty-three years ago, will have charge of the second improvement.

The combined garages will occupy an entire quarter block, with the exception of the 40 by 50 foot space on the corner now occupied by an oil station. This station will be undisturbed.

To Cost $30,000.

The garages will be separate. One will face the north, on Second street; and the other will have entrances both on Second street and on Buchanan. Their estimated cost is $30,000.

The east garage has been leased for five years by the McDonnell Motor Co. of St. Joseph, which has the agency in this district for Chevrolet cars. J. C. McDonnell, a member of the St. Joseph firm, will move to Maryville and assume charge. Fred Newlon, who has been the Chevrolet representative here for some time, will retain his connection with the new firm.

There have been several applications from would-be tenants for the west garage. An announcement concerning it will be made later.

The two garages will be separate. Both will be steam heated.

It was in 1903 that Mr. Gray moved to Maryville and erected a building at the corner of Second and Buchanan streets to house a "ten-cent farmers' feed yard." There was a storm of protest, home owners in the neighborhood fearing that the feed yard would impair the value of their properties. But the building went up. The Mayor at that time was William Garrett, father of W. O. Garrett, present mayor.

Changed To Coal Business.

Ten years ago, Mr. Gray saw the "handwriting on the wall," the replacing of the horse by the automobile. He entered the coal business. For several years he has been planning to erect a better building.

When the Gray feed yard was first established, an old house was moved off the site. It was then one of the oldest in the city. It is still standing, located now near the Engelmann greenhouses.

In the sale pavilion which Mr. Gray provided soon after he entered business, thousands of dollars worth of livestock and other property have changed hands.

The contract calls for completion of the double building within ninety days.

Fire Fighting Machine Installed at Guilford

Town Now Equipped With Up-To-Date Apparatus—Disastrous Fire Starts Agitation For Engine.

Guilford has just installed a chemical fire engine of thirty-five gallon capacity. The engine, painted red, is equipped with ladders, hose, a large bell, etc.

Several months ago, Guilford had a disastrous fire in which two brick business houses were destroyed, together with two stocks of merchandise. A short time later, an agitation for the installation of up-to-date fire fighting equipment began. A special election was held and the vote was practically unanimous in favor of the bond issue.

A special committee from the town council began investigation and finally purchased equipment, manufactured by a Kansas City concern. It arrived several days ago.

PRELIMINARY TRIAL WAIVED

ALLEGED SHEEP AND CHICKEN THIEVES BOUND OVER.

BOND NOT FURNISHED

Ed Brody And Robert Criswell To Be Held For Trial On Felony Charges.

Ed Brody, charged with sheep stealing, and Robert Criswell, charged with stealing chickens in the night, each waived preliminary hearing this morning when arraigned in the justice court of W. L. Johnson. They were bound over to the Circuit Court for trial at the April term.

Brody's bond was fixed at $1,500 and Criswell's at $1,000 on each of two charges. Neither was able to find bondsmen and both were returned to the county jail.

Criswell, who was arrested last week at his home at Maitland, was charged with stealing twelve chickens of the value of $15 from Lura and Florence Gaddy, north of Graham, on or about December 20, and also with taking seventeen chickens, valued at $25, from the farm of Everett Miller, south of Burlington Junction.

Criswell was arrested after three brothers-in-law, Russell, Otha and Elvis Allen, had been arrested at Council Bluffs, Ia., and charged with a series of car strippings and tire thefts. He was implicated by them in these thefts. He is on parole from the district court at Council Bluffs, where he was sentenced to ten years imprisonment for burglary and larceny.

The charge against Brody is stealing of eighteen sheep, valued at $200 from C. C. Carr, near Maryville, on the night of February 10. He is alleged to have been in the same gang with W. H. Steele, who is now serving a one-year sentence in the county jail here after pleading guilty to the theft of two sheep from the Carr farm. Steele also was charged today with the theft of the eighteen sheep, which preceded the offense for which he is in jail. Theft of two sheep was a misdemeanor, punishable only by fine or jail sentence; theft of eighteen is a felony, punishable by confinement in the state penitentiary.

The chicken stealing against Criswell also are felonies and punishable by penitentiary sentences.

Steele has retained Attorney John Hefley of St. Joseph. Both Steele and Brody were St. Joseph men.

"Shorty" to Tell Bare Facts About Season Just Over

Beginning tomorrow, this newspaper will carry a series of three daily articles written by H. Frank Lawrence, coach of the State Teachers College basketball team, concerning the 1926 season just over. These articles contain the "bare facts" of the season. They compose the coach's opinion of his team.

The first article carries a resume of the games played. It tells briefly facts concerning the victories and defeats. It mentions the experienced men, and tells why there was an under-current of steadiness in the team.

The second article deals with the faults of the team, while the third carries a tabulation on the scoring of the different players, with remarks concerning comparative teams scores.

Another Tax Cut for Next Year Is Hinted

Total Collections For Year Ending June 30 Will Be About Forty Million Greater Than Anticipated.

Washington, March 25.—Another tax cut next year may be possible because of the unexpected high collections under the revenue law just adopted, it was indicated at the treasury department today. Revised estimates place the total collections for the year ending June 30, 1926 at approximately $1,800,000,000, which is forty million dollars greater than under the higher rates last year, Secretary of Treasury Mellon announced.

MRS. BARBER'S CHICKENS WIN

PLACE FOURTH IN STATE FOR EGGS LAID.

FLEETWOOD ADVISES

County Agent Tells Facts Concerning Proper Way To Raise Baby Chickens.

Mrs. Fred Barber of Skidmore ranked fourth in this state with her flock of White Leghorn hens for egg production in January, according to a report received today by J. Ross Fleetwood. Mrs. Barber's ranking came in the class of flocks of more than fifty hens.

Mrs. Barber's hens laid a total of 2278 eggs during the month or an average of 19.8 eggs for each of the 115 birds.

Mrs. H. C. Wilcoxen of Pike County led the state with an average of 23.24 eggs for each of her 141 hens.

The survey for January showed that the Rhode Island White variety of hens laid the largest average number of eggs. White Leghorns were second, Buff Orpingtons were third, Rhode Island Reds were fourth and buff rocks were fifth. The Rhode Island Whites laid an average of 11.72 eggs from 1103 hens.

Mr. Fleetwood said today that he has been receiving many inquiries concerning raising conditions for little chicks. He gave the following as rules which should bring the best results.

If baby chicks are hatched at home it should be remembered to keep food from them for the first forty-eight hours and also to keep them in the dark. When chicks are kept in a well lighted brooder house without food they sometimes start the toe-picking habit. The chicks may be either kept in the incubator or in chick boxes until they are old enough to feed.

The chicks must be kept warm. A temperature of 100 degrees should be maintained for the first week. After the first week the temperature should be gradually reduced using only enough heat to keep the chick comfortable.

Fresh air is important. Too frequently the brooder house is kept closed so there is no chance for the foul air to escape. Where there is no ventilation the chicks become dull and inactive.

Grain Rate Hearing at K. C. on April 21

Move By Kansas City Southern To Lower Charges Opposed By Other Roads In Middle West.

Washington, March 25.—Western farmers seeking lower freight rates on their surplus grain for export met stiff resistence today from carriers, both rail and water, who ask the interstate commerce commission to prevent a general slash proposed.

Examiner Mooney of the commission was designated to hear protests at Kansas City April 21 against the move by the Kansas City Southern Railroad to lower rates on corn and wheat 3 cents per hundred pounds.

Nine western railroads complain that the reductions will wreck the rate structure on grain for export to the Gulf and Atlantic coast states.

STECK WINS IN FINAL REPORT

SENATE COMMITTEE RULES FOR IOWA DEMOCRAT.

BY 1,420-VOTE MARGIN

Based on Recount Of Ballots Cast In 1924.—Mississippi Democrat To File Minority Report.

Washington, March 25.—The Senate elections committee today adopted the Caraway report, recommending the seating of Daniel F. Steck, Democrat, in place of Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, present incumbent.

The report adopted by the sub-committee, which spent a year investigating the contest, would give Steck the seat by a plurality of 1,420 votes.

The decision was based on the recount of votes cast in 1924, and wiped out by the 800-vote plurality given Brookhart in the official state count.

A minority report, however, will be filed by Senator Stephens, Democrat of Mississippi, declaring Brookhart legally entitled to his seat.

The details of the Stephens report were not made public, but he will contend that the decision of the sub-committee ruling out about 1,500 votes counted for Brookhart by the state authorities was not legal.

ITALIAN DEBT FIGHT OPENED

SENATOR SMOOT IN APPEAL FOR RATIFICATION.

CHURCHILL EXPLAINS

Administration Leaders Predict Favorable Decision by Solons—International Program to Be Aired.

Washington, March 25.—The administration's fight to secure ratification of the $2,040,000,000 Italian debt settlement was launched in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, with a four-hour appeal for its consideration on its merits and devoid of partisan politics.

The settlement forces Italy to pay to its full capacity, Smoot declared. A better settlement cannot be obtained, and if the payment is rejected, Italy will be relieved of all payments for an indefinite number of years.

The Utah Senator closed with a "take it or leave it" dictum to the Senate, supporting his challenge with a hitherto unpublished letter from Secretary of Treasury Mellon to President Coolidge. In the letter Mellon said that the settlement was approved by the President and was passed by the House of Representatives.

"If now the Senate fails to approve the settlement, I think it would be obvious to the world that the reason was political and not fiscal," Mellon said.

London, March 25.—Winston Churchill's attack upon the American policy of debt collections, made in the House of Commons yesterday, was deliberately planned for calling to the attention of the American people the harm resulting to Europe from the American debt policy, it was explained officially today.

The chancellor of exchequor has no hopes of changing the attitude of the American government toward the settlement of war debts, but he is anxious that the American people shall know his views regarding the effects of America's refusal to cancel the debt.

In semi-official circles, some hopes are held out that the United States government may decide upon a change in its policy, resulting in a general readjustment of the debt settlements already made.

Washington, March 25.—With the whole field of American foreign relations in the foreground, the Senate today began formal consideration of the two-billion-dollar Italian war debt settlement.

Administration leaders predicted an early and favorable decision, although the whole international program of the administration will be thoroughly aired before a final vote is taken on the question of war debts.

The debt debate, which Senator Smoot opens this afternoon, probably will be as virilous and protracted as the struggle over the world court. However, in that test of President Coolidge's international program, he was supported by the Democratic party in the Senate, but in the debt fight he will receive no such support.

On the contrary, the majority of the Senate Democrats may line themselves up with the belligerent insurgents to oppose ratification of the pact. The Democrats, at least, will favor an attempt to recommit the settlement to the Senate finance committee with instructions to gather more information about Italy's capacity to pay. This plan was proposed by Senator Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas, minority floor leader, and met with indorsement from the insurgents.

The debt fight will involve a half-dozen issues. There will be a discussion of Italy's alleged imperialistic aims, her war plans, and Mussolini's dictatorship. The whole world court battle undoubtedly will be revived in debate, while the recent developments at Geneva and the League of Nations proposed disarmament conference will be drawn into the wrongle.

In the face of this confused spectacle, administration leaders remained confident that the Senate will ratify the pact. Senator Smoot predicted the vote would be at least 56 to 40 in favor of ratification, basing his estimate on a private poll of the Senate.

London, March 25.—Reopening the discussion of the British debt to the United States was seen in well-informed quarters here today as the probable outgrowth of the speech by Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequor, on the inter-allied debt before the House of Commons.

Local Clergymen Declare That Hell Exists, in Giving Their Interpretations of the "Life Which Comes After Death"

What is hell?

Webster says that it is a place or state of punishment for the wicked after death; the abode of evil spirits—hence, any place or state of misery, anguish, turmoil, or wickedness. He also says that it is a place where a tailor throws his shreds or a printer throws his broken type.

The general conception of hell is that it is a place inhabited by devils with pitchforks, and fragrant with the aroma of burning sulpher and brimstone. It is also referred to by some as the place where business has gone.

But here is the conception of several Maryville clergymen on the subject:

"Man Digs Own Hell."

"Every man digs his own hell," Dr. C. C. James, pastor of the First M. E. Church, said. "I can only stand on scriptural ground in defining hell," he said. "In the New Testament teaching, the place and experiences are described as 'unquenchable fire,' 'the undying doom,' 'outer darkness,' 'weeping and gnashing of teeth,' 'eternal destruction,' and 'the second death.'"

Dr. James said that memory is everlasting. It does not die. "The memory of things which one would want to forget and the knowledge that they can never be forgotten would create a fire which would burn for a long time," he said.

"In the light of Christ's teaching, we may see beyond the judgment and find two groups of people; one upon the right hand; the other on the left—the one blessed; the other accursed—the one welcomed into the light; the other cast out—the one heir to eternal life; the other subjected to second death and sent into the fire. No matter how much we may discuss the figurative interpretation, these descriptions are meant to give a picture of the irremediable doom. It has all the marks of finality.

Would Paint Brighter Picture.

"I wish it were my privilege to paint a brighter picture of hell, but I can see but one result for those who have the privilege and opportunity to accept Jesus and do not."

The Rev. R. A. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, says:

"Of the topography of hell I am ignorant. But I believe in the Bible. I believe in God. I believe in Christ. I believe in Heaven. I believe in good. I believe in evil. I believe in hell. Hell is the very opposite of heaven.

Some Jump and Miss.

Here is a path to Heaven. It is plain. It is safe. Jesus marks it out for mankind. Here is one that says, "I will not walk in it." He is determined to take his own way. He makes his own choice. Follows his own path. He stands on the heights to which his path has led him. He gazes to the heights of Heaven. The last hour has come and he decides to bridge the gulf. Stand back! Give him room! Let him try! Jump! He misses the mark! Let it be known forever (Luke 16:26. "Between us and you there is a great gulf fixed; so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us that would come from hence."

Do the spirits of the lost remember those who have been left behind? Yes. Luke says, "I pray Thee therefore—send him to my Father's house, for I have five brothers."

Hell Not Made for Man.

Hell was not made for man. It was made for the devil and his angles. Think of the votaries of this world's pleasures, of those given to this world's delights, suddenly arrested in their career, carried away into eternity, away from all their pleasures to a land where no sound of mirth, voice of song, note of music ever breaks upon the air. The lost soul will remember in eternity that he failed to choose the good and accepted the evil. No matter how much he may wish to make amends—it is too late! Who shall say what amount of torment might lie in an eternity of unsatisfied longings? I can conceive of nothing more terrible than to have continued aspirations for something good, and all the while conscious that to acquire it is eternally impossible. This, in my mind, is the estate of those who are lost; the place we commonly call hell.

Revealed Truth for Catholic.

"For the Catholic the existence of hell is a revealed truth, which he believes on the same authority and with the same certainty of faith as the Trinity, the Incarnation and the Atonement," said the Rev. Fr. Henry F. Niemann, of the St. Patrick's Church. "Depart from Me you cursed into everlasting fire . . . . these shall go into everlasting punishment. Matt. XXV: 41. 46. It is better for thee to enter lame into life everlasting than having two feet to be cast into hell of unquenchable fire. Mark IX: 44, 45.

"They are cast into everlasting fire. This fire is, first and foremost, the fire of their burning hatred, burning envy, burning thirst of revenge, a burning craving for happiness which will never come. They are made for God. Their nature is made for God. They are held fast and encompassed round about by God, for even in hell no one can escape God. God is burning fire. He is a fire of love that enraptures the Blessed and makes them glow in the

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

Mrs. Barber's Chickens Win

The surest way to avoid disease in the little chicks is to use only clean feed, clean litter, clean houses, and clean fresh range.

Moldy feed or litter is almost certain to cause a disease known as brooder pneumonia. When the feed or litter is moldy, the little chicks can very easily inhale the mold spores which will grow on the lung tissue of young chicks and produce disease. Young chicks are far less resistant to most all diseases than mature hens.

The house should be thoroughly cleaned with hot lye water or some good disinfectant before being used for little chicks because it is entirely possible that some infection from last year's chicks will remain in the house if the dirt and filth are not removed.

The use of fresh clean ground for range is probably more important than any other sanitary measure. Yards that are used year after year become heavily infected with disease germs and various parasites such as round worm and tape worms.

The only sure way to avoid these parasites is to use fresh range each year for the growing chicks. On the average farm this is a simple matter if there is a portable brooder house. The house can be moved each year and it will not be necessary to use any given space more frequently than once in three or four years.

In selecting a location for the brooder house, it should be remembered that shade is important to growing chicks during the hot summer weather. An orchard or corn field is an excellent location for a brooder house.

It will be well to remember the little chicks that are too small to turn out on range will appreciate some green food. A piece of sod that has a good growth of green on it will supply the much needed green food and a good bit of exercise will be taken by the little fellows in scratching over the sod.

Local Clergymen Declare Hell Exists

ecstacy of joy when they love Him in return. He is the same fire of love in hell, but the damned writhe in agony in those flames, for they have determined never to answer His love. The kiss of God, which is divine sweetness unto the Saints, only evokes blistering hate from the damned. Thus they make their own hellfire and turn the loving God into an instrument of torture.

Fire a Physical Reality.

"The fire of hell is a physical reality. About the nature of this fire it is idle to speculate. Though a physical reality, it is different from the material fire we know of. The damned were men and women, and as men and women they sinned. Hence some physical reality will affect them and make them feel a pain analagous to the pain, so well known on this earth, the pain of being burnt. Christ Himself, having all the words of human speech to choose from, repeatedly chose the word 'fire' to describe the pains of hell.

"Without divine revelation, unaided human reason would indeed have realized the possibility of an eternal sanction of God's law, but could never have known that solemn truth clearly and definitely. Without hell and an eternal hell there would be no ultimate sanction of the moral law. A sinner could sin to the utmost of his bent for an indefinite length of time with the certainty that it would make no ultimate difference to him. However atrocious the crime, it would never mean an ultimate loss of God. In consequence, even repentance itself would be shorn of moral value, for it would be absolutely inevitable in the end; the sinner might change his mind, but there would be no need of change of heart. The denial of an ultimate sanction, of endless happiness or endless pain, would lead to the absurd conclusion that a man might blaspheme and hate God, and fling up to heaven his deliberate preference of some loathsome pleasure to the possession of God, and that he might do so with the calm certainty that in the end he will be as certainly happy as those who on this earth have loved and served God. The sinner would indeed know that his sins might involve sufferings for a limited time, but the length or intensity of temporary punishment could and would only in a measure act as a mere deterrent, but would cease to act as a moral motive.

Hell's Pains Endless.

"The punishment of hell is not an infinite punishment. No finite being could bear infinite pains. The pains of hell are endless, but not infinite. We have no grounds to suppose that God inflicts the utmost possible measure of punishment on the damned. God has never revealed any such thing. God has told us that the punishment shall never end, but about the amount of punishment He has given no revelation. God shall give to every one according to his works."

"Opinion" Only Vapor.

The Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the First Christian Church, says that no man can have a conception of hell other than what the Bible says. "Any man's 'opinion' is only vapor when he attempts to talk about the life after death," he said. "There is only one book in the world which tells us anything about the future state of man. Beyond what is there recorded, we know nothing."

Mr. Musgrave said that there is no information concerning the after-life for the man who does not believe in the Bible. He then quoted the following Biblical references concerning what comes after life:

Refers to Bible.

"The rich man died, and was buried; and in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torment." Saying, "I am tormented in this flame."

"The Lord knows how to deliver the goodly out of temptation, and to reverse the unjust to the day of judgement to be punished."

"The heavens and the earth which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved to fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men."

"For God spared not the angles that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved to judgment."

"And many of them that slept in the dusk shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt."

"They who have done good to the resurrection of life; and they who have done evil to the resurrection of condemnation."

"That they are enemies to the cross of Christ, whose end is destruction."

"Rejected and nigh to cursing, whose end is to be burned."

Hell Is Everlasting.

"To whom is reserved the blackness of darkness forever."

"Cast into hell, where the worm dies not, and the fire shall never be quenched."

"He who shall sin against the Holy Spirit has never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal condemnation."

"It shall never be quenched."

". . . and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burns with fire and brimstone; which is the second death."

"The lake of fire," was "prepared for the devil and his angles."

"These shall go away into everlasting punishment."

Twice it is said: "The smoke of their torment ascended forever and ever."

"Do you say these passages are terrible? So is it terrible that intelligent men and women will not listen to the voice of God. Some listen to destructive critics rather than the teaching of the Bible. By accepting the Bible view you have nothing to lose and everything to gain," he said.

"There are several Hebrew and Green words translated by our one English word, "Hell," said the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

"Some of these words mean the grave, or hidden world, while others carry the idea of suffering. Many other Bible expressions refer to hell where the word itself is not used. The passages are many; are used by many Bible writers; and are often on the lips of Jesus. If we accept the Bible at all, we must accept its teachings on this subject. The Bible speaks with the same authority on heaven and hell, salvation and sin, God and man.

Is A Place of Punishment.

"Hell is a place of punishment, of suffering, of woe. The rich man was tormented in flames of fire. Some are cast into the lake of fire. There is weeping and gnashing of teeth. These and many other figures of speech out of our experience indicate the anguish to be avoided.

"Hell, so far as any man is concerned, is the outcome of evil, neglect, idleness, selfish indulgence, gross ingratitude, a missing of God's purpose. It is the result of a deliberate choice of ways that lead away from God. Neglect of warning signs leads off into the swamps, or to a wreck, or to disease and death. The ways of death do not produce life.

Is Continuation of Life.

"Hell is in some measure the continuation of this life. Whoever goes to hell takes hell with him. Some are worse than others. Hence one will be beaten with many stripes, another with few. It will be more tolerable for some than for others. Evil on earth often assumes frightful forms and grows into monstrous sizes. If God's gracious influences were removed, no one knows to what limits evil would grow. Hell is the absence of God and all good. Perhaps many men on earth have the essence of hell in their hearts.

"Hell lasts. There is no chance for escape. All opportunity is past for personal reformation and for useful service. A great gulf is fixed between heaven and hell, so that one cannot pass back and forth.

Escape Through Jesus.

"God provides a way of escape through Christ Jesus. 'Whosoever believes on Him shall not perish.' The boat drifts perilously near the falls. The rope is thrown, but is refused, and men are carried to destruction of their own choice. The doctor has a sure remedy, but the patient refuses to take it, and dies of his own choice.

"'Judas can never blame God for his presence in hell. Nor can any one else. 'God is love,' but also 'God is just,' and 'every sin shall receive its just recompense.'

"'God wishes not that any should perish, but that all should come to repentence'."

"MEET 'em at the pump" is the best way to convince customers of your desire to render satisfactory service. If you are busy on one car when another drives in, call to the new customer, "Be there in a minute"—and indicate to him by your actions that you are losing no time BUT are giving the car you are on the kind of service that HE wants. Where there is more than one man at the station you can wait on as many cars as there are men. As a customer is leaving say to him, or her, "Well, hurry back!" "Come again," "Don't forget the number;" or some similar parting suggestion. The words you say do not count as much as the spirit with which you say them. The two times when the customer is most impressed with your attitude are just as he drives up and just as he drives away.

"The words that you say do not count as much as the spirit in which you say them."

The famous Marland Smile is the result of "the spirit" back of Marland Service.

Marland men are trained and urged to actually "feel" that the service they render must be wholehearted and rendered in a spirit that leaves you feeling that it is given because we are actually glad to render it.

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Springfield, where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he finds Olga. She faints at hearing she is wanted for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see the man they are looking for—the man she says got the stub. He escapes, but they identify him by a police photo as IKE JENSEN.

Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. She breaks the engagement.

Jimmy gets a phone call from Olga saying she has found Jensen. He rushes to her apartment to find her gone. Her disappearance is a newspaper sensation for days.

He is walking with his friend, BARRY COLVIN, when he spies KID DIVIS, a known intimate of Jensen, boarding a street car. He trails him through lonely streets and dismal fog to a house in the outskirts. He hears a woman's voice cry out. It is Olga's, and he silently enters.

Jensen, Divis and Olga are in a room. Jensen goes upstairs to answer a phone. Jimmy creeps in and hits Divis with a broken andiron. Then he goes upstairs to overhear Jensen.

He betrays his presence, and there is a fight. Jensen corners him and, boastingly, confesses to the murder of Henry Rand. In the struggle that follows Jimmy is slowly being overpowered when the stair rail gives way and Jensen goes crashing through.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER L.

There was a heavy thumping noise on the stairs as Jensen's huge body struck. Then several lesser bumps as he rolled down the remaining steps and, finally, utter stillness.

For the life of him, Jimmy couldn't move. He was paralyzed with the fear that Jensen might get up and choose to enter that room where Olga sat and Divis lay, instead of coming back. He might even take time to find the revolver Jimmy had kicked downstairs.

Still, knowing this, he was unable to stir. He was leaning heavily against the wall, just where that last desperate push against Jensen had left him, and he was sucking the breath into his lungs in great, gasping sobs.

Jensen had crushed it out of him—had almost crushed the very life out of him with those gorilla-like arms of his. A sharp, shooting pain in his side—an agonizing stab—told of a broken rib, and deadly nausea had descended on him. He fought against fainting, with straining eyes fixed on the broken banister rail in front of him.

It seemed ages before his deadened, reluctant muscles would obey the messages of his brain. Finally he was able to move, and then, leaning heavily on the railing for support, he painfully descended, his eyes watchful of any movement in that shadowy still form at the bottom of the stairs.

Olga sat where Jimmy had left her, the pistol held nervelessly in her shaking hand, not daring to take her burning eyes off the outstretched figure of Divis lying on the floor.

Her head ached and throbbed; her tattered nerves seemed to be screaming to her to relax.

To relax, to find relief in blessed unconsciousness. . . .But she dared not. She knew for a certainty that if she but closed her eyes and laid her head on her arm, she would faint. . . .And Jimmy Rand had told her to watch Divis, to keep this pistol pointed at him in case he should move.

Would she dare to pull the trigger if he should suddenly leap up at her? She shuddered. She would try—but she did not know.

Why had Jimmy left her to go upstairs—with Jensen up there? Why had he not first taken her out some place and then, if he chose, taken the pistol himself and gone upstairs? Even that was foolhardy enough, for Jensen was armed. . . .

And she hadn't told Jimmy that. She had forgotten. She shivered, and with difficulty suppressed a scream. . . .

Her ears ached as she strained them against the silence that had enveloped the whole house.

Then she heard footfalls—the heavy tread of Jensen crossing the room. And then voices, loud and angry.

Jensen had discovered him! In agony she waited for the sound of a shot. But it did not come. Instead, she heard something rattling down the stairs, then— it seemed ages later—the slamming of a door, another shuffle of feet and a deep, full-throated laugh that could only be Jensen's.

She was trembling violently now, the pistol shaking loosely in her grasp. She turned her head toward the door, as if that would somehow bring the sound nearer. And she knew somehow she didn't want to hear what was about to happen. . . .

With a sudden start she turned back to the unconscious Divis. Suppose he had moved. Suppose he had come to and seen her with her head turned—and leaped at her. . . .Desperately, she tightened her fingers on the pistol. Divis lay in death-like stillness, and blood slowly trickled from a gash behind his ear. She sickened.

Voices again. . . .A deep rumbling voice that was Jensen's. And then—thank God!—a low, steady voice that told her Jimmy was at least alive.

But what could they be doing? Her imagination conjured up a thousand fates for Jimmy—in that room with the torturing, bone-breaking Jensen. There flashed through her mind that Jensen might be saving Jimmy for some refined cruelty he might work at his leisure—playing with him, as a cat plays with a helpless mouse.

She listened and waited for what seemed ages—and the silence was broken only by the guttural voice of Jensen, and his laugh—that toneless, heartless laugh.

And again her nerves were screaming at her. She was tired to the point of utter exhaustion, and in her head—behind her eyes—was a pain such as she had never before experienced in her life.

Divis, she noted dully, was still lifeless, and beneath his head a little paddle of thickening blood had formed. . . .

The voices upstairs suddenly had grown louder. She heard a door open violently, felt the house tremble beneath a rush of feet and shake as something hit against the wall. Then Jensen's taunting voice, sounding nearer, and the sound of deep, quick-drawn breaths.

A sharp exclamation, and then the crackling, splintering sound of breaking wood. A loud, prolonged crash and then a heavy thump on the stairs, and something rolling down.

Here senses reeled. "Jim!" she tried to scream, but her voice was only the faintest of whispers. Her head fell forward quite suddenly, and she rolled out of the chair and onto the floor, her fingers still loose around the handle of the pistol.

Long minutes passed during the interval between the confused awakening of Kid Divis and the opening of his eyes. Strange buzzing sounds were in his ears—then an unaccountable crashing noise.

He opened his eyes slowly, painfully, and the room revolved mistily before them. His head throbbed with a thousand aches, and the fingers that he moved to it came away with blood on them.

He tried to stagger to his feet, and had to catch hold of the dizzy table for support. His knees refused to hold his weight and he leaned on the table heavily.

Before him, stretched on the floor, lay a woman. Dull, confused remembrance was on him. . . . She had been here before the dark came—and someone else, too—Jensen. Where was Jensen? Had Jensen hit him? . . .

He crawled toward her, and from between her fingers he pulled a pistol he dimly remembered as having once belonged to him.

Jimmy was leaning over Jensen's voiceless, sprawling figure. He bent closer, and in the semi-darkness he could see that the man's head was twisted at an odd angle—as if it no longer were joined to his shoulders.

Dazed as he was with the shock—and still overcome with boiling, seething hate—Rand felt a sudden and odd revulsion.

Then he was beside the other man, listening at his chest. He raised his head slowly—Jensen wasn't breathing, even. He wondered, with a sharp hostility, whether the man was playing a trick on him. . . .

A shadow fell on the wall beside him, and a man's voice said, thickly, 'Damn you, Ike, why'd you hit me?''

And then he turned and saw Kid Divis' wavering figure silhouetted against the light from the open door, a pistol trembling in his faltering hand.

Chronic Fatigue Keeps Many Mothers Always "Dead Tired"

Thousands of pale, tired, worn-out mothers are victims of chronic fatigue—and do not know it.

Chronic fatigue is not the ordinary tired feeling. It is an unnatural tiredness that "hangs on"—usually due to lack of sufficient organic iron in the blood. For conquering it Nuxated Iron is unexcelled. It contains true organic iron like that in the blood, and in spinach and lentils. Nuxated Iron increases strength in two weeks or money back. Will not injure teeth or disturb stomach like mineral iron. For sale at all good druggists.

Mothers of Sickly Children Read This

My Boy Was Run Down—Just About Skin and Bones, And No Appetite Writes Mrs. Baker Of Boston.

NOW STURDY AND STRONG.

"I am writing you in the hopes that other Mothers will read this voluntary testimonial regarding McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. My boy, Emanuel, was run down completely, just about skin and bones; also irritable and with no appetite.

"I noted a wonderful improvement in him while taking your tablets and purchased three more boxes. His appetite picked up, and he is now sturdy and strong. A cheerful youngster and a happy mother want to thank you.

"You may print this at any time or anywhere you wish.

"MRS. ALBERT E. BAKER,
"33 Ridgeway St., Boston, Mass."

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.

But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing, and wise parents are buying, McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the unusual should happen and you are not satisfied with results—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Be sure—always—to get the original and genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets 60 cents, at Gaugh & Evans or any druggists.—Adv.

Pimples

What can I do?

"OH, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples; blotches and blackheads?

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, you don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be as clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red-blood-cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stops them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build, makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, boils and eczema—gives you back your appetite—builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

ALL WORN OUT?

So Was Mr. Bramble Who Tells His Experience.

Are you tired all the time; worn-out night and day? Does your back ache as if it would break? Do you suffer dizziness, headaches, rheumatic twinges or distressing urinary disorders? You have good cause, then, to be alarmed about your kidneys. Do as many of your townfolk recommend. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. This Maryville case is convincing.

Geo. F. Bramble, retired blacksmith, says: "I had a dull ache in my back that kept up for two or three days at a time. The steady aching made me feel so tired I felt all worn out at the end of an ordinary day's work. I had dizzy spells, too at times when little black spots came before my eyes. Doan's Pills soon made me feel better. Several boxes relieved me."

Pickering Property Sold.

James L. and Mary J. Carter have sold to Dora E. Williams, lots 18 and 19 in block 3, Wallis' second addition to the town of Pickering. The consideration, according to a deed filed today with Mrs. Mamie Clardy, county recorder, was $1,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hagey, formerly of Clarinda, Ia., moved to Clearmont yesterday. He is employed in the Baker garage.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hull, living near Elmo, announce the birth of a son this morning.

Old Mr. Carter Helped by Simple Mixture

"After taking Adlerika I feel better than for years. At my age (60) it is ideal—so different from other medicines." (signed) W. W. Carter. Adlerika is a simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., which removes GAS in ten minutes and often brings surprising relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Brings out old waste-matter you never thought was in your system. Excellent for chronic constipation.—Koch Pharmacy. In Pickering, A. F. Lett, Druggist.—Adv.

From School Teacher To Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him thru medical college. He began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pa.

He was a student of nature, knew and could easily recognize most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Later, he moved to Buffalo, N. Y. where he launched his favorite remedies, and in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold in the U. S. If your druggist does not sell the Golden Medical Discovery, in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to the Dr. Pierce Clinic, in Buffalo, N. Y.

LIVES ON FARM IN OKLAHOMA

Happy Woman Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a houseful of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and timid.

This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 396, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound."

Other women who have to work hard and keep things going may find the road to better health as Mrs. Short did, through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask your neighbor.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, March 25.—Grain prices closed fractionally higher on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat closed from ¾c to 1½c higher. Despite this it was a choppy market, weak in tone and was virtually all news favoring the holders. There was a noticeable depression in buying. Many eastern interests who had been short are now long in both May and July deliveries. Seaboard dispatches stated exports amounted to between 600,000 and 700,000 bushels. Liverpool closed higher.

Corn closed fractionally higher in all deliveries.

Oats closed fractionally above yesterday's final figures.

Provisions closed higher.

Bank Officers Differ on Amount of Loans

Sedalia Men Give Out Slightly Varying Figures On "Frozen" Paper Held As Security.

Sedalia, Mo., March 25.—Officials of the closed Farmers and Mechanics and American Exchange banks here today gave out slightly varying figures on the amount of slow-paying farm loan paper which caused the state banking commissioner to place them in the hands of an examiner yesterday morning. Emil Zoernig, president of the Mechanics bank, said the total in his bank is about $244,000 and in the American Exchange about $116,000.

Figures of E. R. Barrett, cashier of the American Exchange, are $38,000 lower for his bank and $34,000 lower for the Mechanics Bank.

Mr. Zoernig places the blame entirely upon notes acquired last fall from the American Exchange. Only about $20,000 of the original paper in his bank was objectionable to the finance commissioner, he said.

The American Exchange Bank, E. R. Barrett said, took about $80,000 of the notes in trade. None sold to the Mechanics Bank were taken back, he said.

Night Raiders Loot Cave Near Hopkins

While Ed Elfritz and family were in Hopkins last Saturday night, sneak thieves entered the cave on the Jake Haaf farm, 5 miles east of town, carrying away the meat of three recently butchered hogs as well as the lard and several bushels of potatoes, some canned fruit and other things, evidently coming in a truck to "lick the platter clean." This vicinity needs an Anti-Thief Association as such raids as this are becoming altogether too frequent and must be stopped not only as a protection to those who are suffering losses but for the good name of the county. Horse stealing used to be common here but the use of rope soon put a stop to it and history may repeat itself if a certain class of undesirables do not mend their ways.—Hopkins Journal.

Misses Nona and Verle Pierse will go to Kansas City this evening to be the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Stewart.

Joseph Holker of Hopkins was a Nodaway County visitor at the St. Joseph Stockyards yesterday.

Mrs. M. Brown of Orrsburg spent today in Maryville.

Mrs. Frank DeLong of Ravenwood visited in Maryville today.
